

Journal Access Always at Your Fingertips

Did you know that Max Planck researchers have access to more than 15,000 research journals? Negotiating with over 100 commercial publishers worldwide, we organize licensing, financing and access exclusively for you.

Access to journals and articles is provided invisibly through on campus authentication - no password is required. To search for individual articles, simply use your favorite tool like PubMed, Web of Science or Google. To locate a specific journal try the Electronic Journals Library (EZB) or download your article directly from the publisher's platform.
